Conrad Here To Put Over Rec Director

The issue of a full time, year around recreation director for Carmel, a point of controversy since it was first suggested by State Recreation Consultant Carson Conrad in 1951, will come before a show-down meeting Wednesday night, 7:30 o'cock in Sunset Cafeteria, when Carson Conrad will make a personal appearance and be the feature attraction.

The affair is jointly sponsored by the Carmel Unified School District Board, the Carmel Recreation Commission, and the Carmel Parent Teachers' Association.

It is a special meeting of the school board at which the board can take official action, and unless strong citizen opposition develops at the meeting, every indication is that the board will take official action, that is, authorize hiring the full time director, since:

The recreation commission has gone on record approving the full time director and so recommended to the school board.

The P.T.A. has been pressuring the recreation commission and the school board for years for the year around director and program.

At its October meeting the board indicated informally its approval of the project, with the exception of one member, Gordon Campbell, who protested that he hadn't made up his mind yet. At that time the other members discussed the matter as if the full time director and year around program were a foregone conclusion and all that remained was to sell the idea to the die-hard opposition. It was decided at that meeting that Corad was to be invited down to do the selling job.

Council Clamps Down On Roof Signs Interim Ordinance Is Effective Now

At its Wednesday night meeting the city council passed an interim ordinance prohibiting all signs and advertising displays on or above the eaves or parapets of buildings in District C-1, C-2 and A-1 without a permit, and limiting all signs and displays to 16 square feet in size. Lettering on such signs is limited to 12 inches in overall height.

The ordinance was declared an emergency measure, immediately effective. See official publication, Ord. 184, especially sec. 2, page 13, this issue of the Pine Cone.

Application for the permit must be made to the city planning commission which shall make its recommendation to the city council. The council may issue the permit if "the proposed sign or display will not be detrimental to the character or development of the neighborhood" and will not "otherwise adversely affect the welfare" of the city. The council may refuse to issue the permit "subject to specified conditions designed to accomplish the purpose of this ordinance."

Since the purpose of the ordinance is to put a stop to the rash of signs, some of bill board proportions, that has lately broken out on the roofs and sides of buildings, the likelihood is that the council will do more refusing than granting.

The council and planning commission have been working for months on an ordinance designed to give them control over signs on buildings—until now control was limited to signs hanging over the sidewalk—but so many offensive signs have gone up in the meanwhile that the council thought Wednesday night's action was necessary to give them some power over the situation until the ideal ordinance can be worked out.

The interim ordinance has no retroactive clauses. It applies only to signs that go up from now until the permanent sign ordinance may be completed and passed.

Editor's Column

We all enjoyed it a lot when City Clerk Peter Mawdsley announced that the city tax rate had been reduced 10 cents. When William Satchell, secretary of the sanitary board, said the sanitary district taxes had been cut three cents, and when Andy Jacobsen, then chairman of the county board of supervisors, promised he'd keep the county tax rate at the same level as the preceding year, our joy was unconfined—and academic. We knew that with a 13 cent tax reduction, our tax bill this year would still be larger than ever, because the reductions in cost of other governmental services can't keep up with the increases in the school district expenses.

Nobody raised a fuss when the school board imposed special eight cent tax this summer. When the board asked us to vote approval for a 10 cent additional tax to make a sinking fund, we all went to the polls and voted for that. Anything within reason for the schools.

And most people, though shocked at the $11,340 bill for two months of summer recreation program this year, assumed that this was within reason. Everything is higher these days.

But is it within reason to expand that $11,340 two months' program into a year around circus?

The P. T. A. is not asking for a year around circus, we hasten to point out. After four years of running into a stone wall of opposition to a full time director and a year around, full scale recreation program, they are modifying their demands. At the joint meeting of the school board, recreation commission and P. T. A. Wednesday night, the P. T. A. will recom-

Jean Chelnov Exponent Of Read Childbirth System

By Beth Ingels

When the Chelnov family arrived in New York recently from Paris, the immigration official glanced at their passports and looked amazed. And well he might have, for they read: Michael, birthplace, Berlin; Sandra, birthplace, Paris; Anatole, birthplace, Moscow; Jean, birthplace, New York.

Actually, it is not quite as complicated as it appears. Jean and Anatole Chelnov met and married in Paris and his work took him to Berlin, where Michael, now seven, was born. After a year-and-a-half in Germany they returned to Paris, and Sandra, who is four, was born there.

Mrs. Chelnov is the former Jean Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zenas Potter of Carmel, who is back to visit here with her parents and her sisters for the first time in ten years. With her over the holidays was her husband, who returned this week to New York to continue in this country in the import-export business. After a few weeks here, Mrs. Chelnov and the children will join him in the east.

Jean Chelnov is an interesting and unusual person, and her natural curiosity plus creative talent have led her into many interesting places and rewarding experiences.

She started her writing career as a member of Time Magazine staff and later transferred to Fortune Magazine. This work she liked even better because it meant a job with travel, and one of her first assignments was to Alaska, where she did a series of articles on that country. Later she authored two books with Alaska as the subject. One was Alaska Under Arms, published by MacMillan in 1942, and the other, Arctic Pilots, a biography of the leading pioneer Alaska and Arctic pilots. This latter is to be published in a second edition in the near future.

More recently she has been contributing to French periodicals, chiefly Constellation, which is a Reader's Digest type of magazine. One of her articles was on the new method of childbirth, based on the findings of an English doctor, Grantly Dick Read, who has been publicized in the past few years for his book, Childbirth Without Fear.

Part of her material for this article was based on personal experience, for Sandra was born by a similar method as developed in a Paris clinic. In fact, she was the first child born in the American Hospital in Paris with doctors who were using this revolutionary process. In this country, Mrs. Chelnov reports, the Yale Clinic is doing a great deal of work on the subject, and is also training

Toward the end of the month, Carmel mothers will hold their annual march and call on houses in eahc neighborhood for further contributions. This date will be announced later.

County chairman of the drive is C. S. Sorenson, while other Peninsula chairmen are: Stafford Hughes, Monterey; Clyde Dyke, Pacific Grove and George T. Cunningham, Seaside.

Ida Maynard Curtis Is 95 Or Is It 97?

Miss Ida Maynard Curtis, Carmel's senior painter, will celebrate her birthday next week. Just which birthday, neither Miss Curtis nor any of her friends seems precisely certain, but it's generally thought to be somewhere between 95 and 97.

Miss Curtis herself has expressed the belief that age doesn't matter too much—certainly not in art. She has been painting virtually all her life, from her childhood in

Prize Money Upped For Crosby Tourney; Set For Jan. 13-16

The 14th annual National Pro-Amateur Golf Championship, sponsored by Bing Crosby, is a $15,000 "added" attraction this year. It has previously been a $10,000 event.

Crosby's tournament, to be held January 14, 15 and 16 this year, will again be played over Cypress Point, Monterey Peninsula Country Club and Pebble Beach golf links. The Golf Clinic is set for 3:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon, January 13.

The field will be split for the first two days of play, according to Tournament Chairman Larry Crosby.

Of the nearly 200 players, made up of world famous professionals and colorful amateurs, half the pro-amateur teams will play Friday at Cypress and half at the Country Club. On Saturday the teams will switch courses.

Sunday the field will be cut to the 60 low teams for the final 18 holes at Pebble Beach. Almost 25,000 fans were on hand to see it last year.

Proceeds are again for charity

BASKETBALL ACTION AT CARMEL HIGH GYM TODAY

Afternoon basketball games which are becoming more and more the vogue in CCAL high school circles comes to Carmel High gym today as the Padres host the enthusiastic Junipero Serra teams from Monterey. The Carmel lads are fresh from a double win over the hustling Palma High squads from Salinas and are anxious to add the Serra clubs to their have-defeated list. Tip-off time for this interesting doubleheader is slated for 3:45.

The Junipero Serra cagers have been to the wars once this season, dropping a pair of close ones to the highly-touted King City Mustang quintets. Coach Clint Purcell's Serra limiteds are a bit on the inexperienced side this season but have good speed, fair height, and good shooting ability. The Cardinal Babes made a great fight of it against the KC Ponies before falling to the rear in the final quarter. The Carmel lights beat the King City lightweights, 24 to 23, and were indeed fortunate to get over the blue and whites from the cow country. The Little Padre are developing into a smooth working quintet with a well-balanced precision attack built around the clever playmaking of guards, Jim Konrad and Mark Hildebrand, and a front line of Bill McCormack, Mervyn Sutton, and Ron Huffman. The Little Padres are currently perched atop the lightweight standings in the Coast Counties Athletic League.

Junipero's varsity lost a great deal of their scoring punch with the graduation of Nelson, Garcia, and Rudolph but have a well-balanced crew which could be real dangerous when their lanky center, Jim Wright, becomes eligible next semester. In Loranger and Davi, the Cardinals have good scoring power from the outside and their stubborn zone defense is hard to penetrate for the good close up shots. The Padre varsity played hot and cold basketball in compiling a 3-3 record for the season but showed signs of developing into a team-playing quintet against Palma High in their last outing. In this afternoon's tilt with Serra, the Carmel heavies will go with a front line of George Wightman, Clyde Klaumann and Mike Mosolf, with Paul Fratessa and Gary Nielsen setting up the outside attack.

CARMEL HIGH WINS TWO FROM PALMA

Rebound control gave Carmel High's basketball squad a pair of victories over visiting Palma High last Tuesday afternoon as the Padre varsity finished in front, 46 to 30, and the Carmel limiteds finished with a winning margin of 32 to 21. In the varsity game, Carmel outjumped the visitors to snare 30 rebounds while Palma was picking off only 9. The Padre Babes swept the boards for 25 rebounds while the Palma lights were getting 14.

By holding Palma's Mighty Mite, Charley Garcia, to 11 points, the Carmel varsity throttled the visitors' scoring power and easily kept game control after the first quarter. The tiny 5-3 Garcia poured through 23 points and nearly beat the Padres in the first meeting at Salinas. George Wightman, Carmel's lanky center, shook off a prolonged shooting slump to pump through 15 points to top all the scorers in the game. Steady Paul Fratessa continued his fine all-around play by hitting for 10 points and playing a sparkling game on defense. A pair of speedy sophomores, Charley Dawson and Clyde Klaumann, added spark to the Padres' play by their aggressive ball-hawking and spirited rebounding.

Carmel's lightweight gang took an early lead with a 12-point first quarter and were well in front for the rest of the game. A fine team effort by the smooth-working limiteds wrapped up their fifth victory as McCormack and Company riddled the Palma defense for close-in crip shots against the man for man employed by the visitors. Scoring off the fast break which was engineered by the fine rebounding of Ron Huffman and Mervyn Sutton, Bill McCormack took scoring honors with 10 points on five field goals. Ron Huffman's 8 and Jim Konrad's 7 added good scoring balance to the Babes' attack. Palma's Jack Shelloe, a clever pivotman, topped all the scorers with an even dozen as he used a devastating hook shot to befuddle the Carmel defense. Defensive standouts for the Little Padres were Mark Hildebrand and Bill McCormack who held their men scoreless throughout the game. Mervy Sutton was the top rebounder, snaring 11 of the 25 credited to the Carmel cause.

THROUGH THE HOOP

Coach Don Prince and his Carmel Sport Shop ironmen put up a valiant fight against the Frost Roofers in a PG League opener, but were finally snowed under, 84 to 61, as the 6-5 Charley Howell hit for 32 markers and Ky Miyamoto swished through 19. The Carmel Sports played all the way with a starting five of Walt Frey, Jim Hare, Coach Prince, Gene Vandervort, and Dick Weer. With nary a six-footer on the squad, the Sports looked like a high school lightweight team playing the towering Frost crew. . . . Hoop fans on the Peninsula take for granted the remarkable shooting prowess of the incomparable Miyamoto. Few players amateur, pro, or college can match cool Ky in the execution of the two-hand set-shot from 20 to 40 feet. In the Frost win over the Carmel Sports, Ky hit six in succession without disturbing the backboard or the rim of the basket. . . . Old time basketball players will be interested to know that Gary Nielsen of Carmel High is the only player in the CCAL who employs the two-hand set-shot. The current trend is toward the one-handers and the popular jump-shot employed by so many of the college stars. . . . Coach Ed Larsh at Monterey High is high on his current varsity quintet, rating them the best he has ever coached. This should be frightening news to the other schools in the A division as the Toreadores have had some powerful aggregations in recent years. . . . Good to hear that Don Borden, popular MPC hoop coach, will soon have a gym for his Lobo cagers. The proposed pavilion is past the talking stage now and is virtually assured before next September. The nomadic Lobos have to move from gym to gym to get in their practice sessions and they have to fit in their playing schedule to avoid conflict with the Monterey High program. With a gym of their own, look for the Lobos to zoom upward in junior college hoop circles.

SOUTHWORTHS HAVE A SON

The first son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Southworth of Carmel Valley came within scant hours of being the first local baby of the New Year. But this doesn't upset the Southworths one bit—they're entirely happy with this boy.

Right now the baby is without an official tag—the Southworths prefer to withhold giving him a name for a week or so, "until we know him a little better." His two sisters are named Jo and Ti'Maun —the latter an original name that the Southworths concocted.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Southworth is her mother, Mrs. Gladys P. Anderson of Huntington, Long Island, who arrived here just in time to be on hand for the arrival of her new grandson.

My Three Angels At Wharf Theatre Warms The Cockles Of Your Heart

By Rosalind Wall

A delightful and tender comedy, delightfully and tenderly done is the Wharf Theatre's presentation of My Three Angels. Properly speaking we doubt that it should have been called a comedy at all except that it is so funny. Actually it is a fantasy. It is something that ought to have happened, that one wishes would happen, that actually—when you stop to think of it—probably could.

Its humor, which is on the broad and human side, fairly warms the cockles of your heart, it is so lovably improbable.

When we tell you that the three angels in question are convicts, convicted murderers no less, who are doing time in a French penal colony, and that they are aided and abetted in their schemes to deliver the hapless Ducotel family from a very unpleasant situation (to wit, a hard-hearted and scoundrelly uncle) at Christmastime by their poisonous pet snake Adolphe, you will comprehend at once that this is no ordinary comedy but a thing of rich, rare flavor.

The three convicts, played by Ben Small as Joseph, Jack Sword as Jules, and George Gordon as Alfred, were wonderfully fey, gay, soignee, sometimes a bit rough—quite naturally; they were murderers after all—but always tender, philosophical and raffishly sophisticated. George Gordon was the most impulsive of the trio, the most disposed towards violence, but then he was young, handsome, and most obviously in love with that breath-taking vision of young womanhood whom all sought to rescue, Marie Louise (Gail Maitre). Ben Small's performance can only be described as brilliant. The characterization was superb; the art of forgery, of being a confidence man became a thing of sheer delight in his skilled hands. Jack Sword seemed entirely natural; one could believe he was exactly like that—or rather that Jules was a person exactly like that.

Emilija Sosic did a marvelous job as Emelie, the wife of the helplessly impractical shopkeeper, Felix (Nick Le Feuvre), who, for all her distress and sharp irritation at her husband's impracticality, nonetheless loved him just as he was. Her make-up was excellent—one would not have suspected she was not a middle-aged woman except when, towards the last in a scene with the convict Jules, her expression softened and grew nostalgic of youth.

Gail Maitre's incarnation as Marie Louise, the tender and innocent daughter in love with that cad, Paul (Robert Barrett), was extremely moving. Nick LeFeuvre did a very good job as Felix, the so helpless, honest and incurably impractical shopkeeper, and Jane Parker was excellent in the comedy character of Mme. Parole. Thomas Brock did a fine characterization of the scoundrel, Uncle Henri, who was so unpleasantly like Dickens' Scrooge.

Paul, the stiff-necked young cad on whom Marie Louise wasted her affections, was convincingly done by Robert Barrett, and we had a brief vision of the future in the shape of a handsome Lieutenant (Bill Friedrichs) just before the curtain fell.

Directed by Robert Carson, this play is a must-see, even for the intellectually sophisticated. It is well-done, it is charming, it is something that everyone who has any warmth or fantasy in his system is sure to love.

Unfortunately this reviewer could find nothing to criticize, nothing wrong with the performance or any of the actors, and so this will have to stand as a rave review.

young doctors in its uses and possibities. Mrs. Chelnov firmly believes that in a hundred years or less, the method will be universally accepted.

"This is the so-called painless method, but actually it is a more complicated system than that. It helps the majority of women, although there is a small percentage upon whom it has no effect whatsoever.

"My own successful experience was the reason for becoming more interested than ever in the subject and as a result visited the Paris clinic many times for case histories which could be used in my articles."

The method is based on the premise that childbirth is not inherently painful, but that pain is caused by fear itself, which in turn creates a muscular warfare during labor.

However, my talk with Mrs. Chelnov was not primarily concerned with childbirth. We discussed French schools, the two Chelnov children, the beautiful Carmel coastline and French poodles.

The poodle, a black standard, was left in New York with friends and will be picked up by the family upon their return to the east. His name is Yar, which means paradise in Russian, and unlike the Chelnov children, understands both French and English.

The children, who ran to the doorway occasionally during the interview to peek at the "madame" who was visiting their mother, have spent their entire lives in France, attended French schools and have a French nurse. English was somewhat neglected. (It was something of a new experience for me to be addressed in French and to have to answer in my limited "kitchen" Spanish. I'm sure it was an experience for them, as well.)

On the subject of the Carmel coastline: "We have visited the Basque country, the Riviera and other beautiful spots along oceans, but this is still the most beautiful of them all."

French schools, Mrs. Chelnov remarked, have a much heavier schedule than the ones in this country. Michael, in the equivalent of the third grade here, does not get home until five in the afternoon and even then has much homework to accomplish before the next morning.

Although she had not seen her sisters, Margaret Hensel and Constance Bruce, for ten years, Mrs. Chelnov saw her father in Paris a number of times. He was for some time in India on special work for the State Department. At present he is on the Monterey County Grand Jury and is also a member of the specially appointed Crime Study Committee. Her mother is an established writer of children's books.

Commercial Building Permits Off In 1954

A total of 141 building permits, for construction valued at $770,765.00 were issued in Carmel during 1954, according to a report released this week by building inspector Floyd Adams.

The total is slightly under the 1953 figure of 144 permits and consistent with the steady decline in building since the peak year of 1950, when 201 permits valued at $1,262,479 were issued. Total value of the 1953 permits was $828,193.00.

"The major difference between 1954 and 1953 was the decrease in the number of commercial units built or remodeled," Adams notes in his report. Of the permits issued last year, 30 were for new residences and only three for commercial buildings, while permits for remodeling and additions totaled 90 for residences and 18 for commercial. Number of new residences constructed was the same for both 1953 and 1954, while the number of residences remodeled or added to increased by 8½%, carrying on a trend of the last few years.

Adams notes that income for the office is down approximately 2% from 1953, but adds that "The adoption of new codes this year, with increased permit fees, should bring the income more nearly in line with the operating costs."

Millar Welcomes Musical Sidewalk Superintendents

"An effort will be made to give both adults and children the chance to serve as 'sidewalk superintendents' at Monday night rehearsals of the symphony, where they may learn about the instruments and watch the great musical works being brought to life," Gregory Millar, Monterey County Symphony conductor, told the Carmel Rotary Club when he addressed them at their Wednesday noon meeting.

He pointed out ways in which support of and participation in the Monterey County Symphony provide opportunities for community service. The symphony is an outlet for those who have studied music and need the opportunity to use their talent for the benefit and enjoyment of others. Millar emphasized that an important part of the symphony's work this year will be concerts for children, to "fire their imaginations" by making music a living thing to them.

Fritz Wurzmann, the other speaker on the program, which was arranged by Dr. Milton Shutes, gave tribute to school superintendent Stuart Mitchell and adult school director Charles Dawson for making it possible for the symphony to be included in the Adult Education program.

Introduced at the meeting were violinist David Abel, who will be guest soloist at the symphony concert January 18, and Miss Catherine Millar, Gregory Millar's sister, mezzo-soprano, who will sing with the orchestra for the March 29 concert.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at the Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel 7-3881.

Fruit Tramp Camps Worse Than Korean Church Group Told

Two visitors from the Orient who were temporarily serving the Division of Home Missions in work among the agricultural migrants in California reported that they saw worse conditions in some camps in California than those they knew in refugee camps in Korea and the Middle East. This was the word brought by the Reverend Dean F. Collins, speaking to the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Collins described his work for the National Council of Churches toward improving these conditions in the western states. He also had many large photographs of the children in the camps, the tiny cabins and the extreme poverty which dogs the unfortunate people, although the work they do affects the food and clothing of every citizen of this country.

Concern for their plight began 50 years ago when a group of church women in Oregon visited a cannery and saw the hard conditions under which the people worked. Great improvement has been made, but the work and the workers have multiplied much faster, so that the missionary organization has a huge task before it to help bring the standard of living of migrant families up to even a subsistence level. It is one of California's most difficult problems in food production.

George A. Cain

Memorial services for George Albert Cain will be held at 3:00 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Church of the Wayfarer, with Dr. K. Fillmore officiating. Cain, 39-year-old Carmel photographer, died December 30 at the Fort Miley Veterans' Hospital in San Francisco from cancer.

Since 1946, when he established his permanent home in Carmel, Cain had practised photography, first as a hobby and then in a professional capacity. A member of the Carmel Camera Club, his work has appeared in numerous exhibits on the Peninsula. His talent for sensitive camera work has been shared by his wife, Marjorie, whose work has also been shown here. Last fall, Cain's success in his field was crowned by the winning of two first awards and a second in the photography show at the Monterey County Fair, in which Mrs. Cain was also a prize-winner.

George Cain was born August 26, 1915, in Lynn, Massachusetts, where he went through primary and high school. During World War II, he was accepted into the ski troops, serving with a unit in the Aleutian Islands, later being assigned to Fort Ord. It was during his Army service on the Peninsula that he met Marjorie Balogh, and following his discharge in the spring of 1946 the two were married and settled in Carmel.

In the years that followed, Cain devoted himself with equal energy to photography and to the building of "Casa del Cain", their adobe home at Walker Road and Camino Real in the Mission Tract. An additional wing to the house, to accommodate the Cains' baby daughter, Marci Jo, was completed just last year. Another of George's active interests was Scouting; until prevented by failing health, he was a committeeman for Den 4 of Cub Pack 107.

In addition to his wife and daughter, he leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cain; a sister, Marguerite Cain; and three brothers, Charles, Edward, and Dr. Arthur Cain, all of whom live in Lynn, Massachusetts.

Private funeral rites were performed December 31 in San Francisco.

The family requests that no flowers be sent to the memorial services tomorrow. Instead, it is asked that friends wishing to do so, send contributions to the Boston Children's Hospital for cancer research.

SANITARY BOARD MEETING

The regular meeting of the Carmel Sanitary District Board will be held Monday night, 7:30 o'clock. At that time, James B. Pruitt will be sworn in as new member appointed to serve out the unexpired term of Lee O. Kellogg, who resigned last month for reasons of health. Kellogg, who had been on the board since 1944, had served only three months of his four year term. Pruitt is chief architectural designer for Comstock Associates.

Wilmurt Swain

Wilmurt O. Swain, Carmel Valley realtor, died Sunday evening at his home on Ford Road in the Valley. He was 61, and had been under a doctor's care for a cardiac ailment, but death was unexpected.

He was born October 25, 1894, in New York City, and attended Columbia University. He served with the Navy during the first World War, later joined the New York real estate firm of Pease & Ellerman.

Mr. Swain first came to the Peninsula in 1926, and subsequently maintained homes in Del Monte Forest. In 1936 he married the former Gladys Cooper of Monterey. The couple moved to Florida in 1941, returning here in 1949 to establish their home in Carmel Valley. He had lately been associated with Herbert Brownell in the Carmel Valley Realty Company.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea Crematorium.

F. J. Clark

Frederick James Clark, 77, a Carmel resident since last summer, died January 1 in a local hospital. Death was unexpected, though Mr. Clark had been under a doctor's care in recent months.

A native of New York City, where he was born May 16, 1878, Mr. Clark lived for many years in San Francisco, where he and his wife, the late Julia A. Clark, owned an apartment house. Mr. Clark moved to Carmel following his wife's death last July, and made his home here at Second and Lincoln streets with a nephew, Wallace Doolittle, and Mrs. Doolittle. Another nephew, Kenneth Doolittle, lives in Monterey.

In addition, Mr. Clark leaves a sister, Mrs. Harold Smith of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, and several other nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held Tuesday in San Francisco.

New Show at Gallery

It is always an adventure to go into the Carmel Art Association Gallery just after the first of the month and see the new show. Some paintings stand out and arrest the attention immediately; others retire from the first cursory inspection and have to be discovered later. Some reveal themselves only to minute, thoughtful consideration, and some remain a mystery.

Among the pictures which claim the first scrutiny is Veteran of the Wars by Joe Ataide, placed just inside the door to the right. This is a very striking original piece of work, stark with the use of tragic color. The face is spectral, abstract, full of rigid suffering. The figure, consciously distorted, moves with a living rhythm against inherent tragedy. Another picture which demands immediate attention is Study of Moses by Leslie Emery. The tremendous, passionate face comes forth with all the intensity and power of a great leader of men. Rugged, powerful, full of fire and exhortation, it is the face of the patriarch calling to his people. Worn by the wilderness to the texture of rock, it shines, illumined by inner vision. It is a picture which remains in the mind.

Mardi Gras by Cush Walker is a scene of revelry painted in contrasty patches of lighted color. The faces of clowns break into the pattern here and there and contribute to a mood of merriment. A fine piece of work, executed with a strong sense of design and interplay of color.

Adeste Fideles by Paul Mays, with its great dramatic sky and cathedral shape dominating the scene, is painted with almost age-worn textures and color values. This feeling of time past, created also by the subject, is nevertheless overshadowed by a presentation definitely of our time. The Old Inn by A. G. Warshawsky, completely harmonious in its crisp staccato technique, achieves a rare grace with its old autumn-leaved vine trailing across the grey walls. North French Coast by Patricia Cunningham is a free sketching of boats in a cove against a background of sea green and yellow, carried out with the dash and vigor so characteristic of this painter.

Enchanted Pool by Nell Walker Warner quiets the eyes with its dark silent atmosphere full of deep forest colors. This is a mood expressing the "fabulous poetry of earth." Silent Shore by Doris Winchell Baker also reflects the same poetry but in a different aspect. The cool grey light of sea and sky mirrored in the wet sand, where the great, upright rock rises abruptly from the horizontal, replies to familiar memories of the beach. There is a quiet simple truth in this picture. Man Walking by Virginia Conroy is an impressive picture, dark and foreboding, with its background suggesting the machine age, and the priest-like figure emerging in somber thoughtfulness from the lower foreground.

Carmel Point by Harry Yoshizumi lights a small landscape with translucent colors and lifts the heavy tone of earth into a rainbow sequence. Oxteam, Mexico, by Howard Smith is a simple statement of sun-swept fields, blue shadows and the stride of lazy oxen before a plough. The Carmel Valley with its towering hills and sunny slopes descending to the fertile valley receives a felicitous interpretation by Mason Wright. In the French Alps by Zenas Potter, with villages and farm lands grouped at the foot of the cloud-encircled mountains, succeeds in portraying a very different atmosphere, distinctly European and ancient.

Fine Evening by Frank Myers is one of his excellent sea pictures with the high flung wave catching the sunlight in living colors of light-transfused spray. Sunrise Surf by Clarence Bates is a fine freely painted marine with great breakers foaming in toward the tide rocks. Sierra Sentinel by Thomas A. McGlynn discovers a wonderful old bent pine against the sunset, surmounting a crag and leaning, unconquered, back to earth. Rainy Night in Gaza by N. J. McMahon is an achievement in glittering reflections, making a world of fantasy and shifting lights of a rainy street. Quai D'Orleans by John Cunningham is painted with solidity and fine perspective, clean in color and true in outline.

Several flower studies are memorable in this show: a lovely arrangement of reds in transparent textures against a pewter pitcher by Mary Miller; a charming cluster of open flowers by Elizabeth Hay, freely lighted so that the petals lift from the canvas; Zinnias by Marjorie Pegram, tightly arranged in a grey-white jug and painted with a true appreciation of their close color intervals.

Smoke Tree Forest by Russell Swan has the peculiar desert-like absence of green which makes its atmosphere authentic. The milky sunlight lying on the sand against the grey blue shadows, with the snow mountain in the distance and the dark, metallic crag rising from the plain are familiar to the traveller. The Studio Table by E. Cashion Mac Lennan is a still life study painted in cool undertones, restrained in color but full of interesting forms. It is unusual in its dismissal of high lights. Study by Rip Matteson is a simply drawn, kneeling figure in black outline against a subdued background, a nice, confident flow of line. Fruit Dish by Jerry Wasserman places a colorful group against lush green leaves and old brick wall, very decorative and compact in treatment. New Mexico Scene by Howard Bopst is most interesting in its generous use of paint and color on color. The old adobe and the roughly painted sky propel the delicate light gold tree into a sparkling foreground, a painting worth studying. Thru Cypress Trees by Doris Rohr gives a glimpse of sea between well-drawn branches forming a familiar frame.

In the alcove is a varied and representative exhibit of small oils by such well-known painters as: Laura Maxwell, Nell Walker Warner, Jay Hannah, Jr., Homer Levinson, Clarence Bates, E. M. Moore, Mary Miller, Cush Walker, Zenas Potter, George Seideneck, Leon Amyx, Jerry Wasserman, Kay Aurner, Jessie MacGregor, Frank Myers, Sam Colburn, Linford Donovan, Celia Seymour, Patricia Cunningham, John Gratiot, Russell Swan, John Cunningham, Kay Rodgers, Burton Boundey, Maxine Albro, E. Cashion Mac Lennan, Jane Buffington, Mason Wright, Alfred Wands, Harvey Williamson, Ruth Cooke, and Pauline Pierson. Outstanding among these in an excellent little painting by Cush Walker called The Secret. —D.H.

DAHLIA LAUGHTER

Seven faces blooming in this small antarctic room
So tint a sick frigidity
With rainbow that the dumb,
The paralyzed, now melts within
To greet her lilting friends,
For, soft, a dahlia in her, roots
And laughs, and understands.

—Othelia Lilly.

NEW MEXICO

Enchanted Land
I drove to see
Navajo, butte and Pinon tree,
Zuni, mesa, peerless sky
The stage was set
But where was I?

Truckers' rates
(the roads are sandy)
Rattlesnakes
And Cactus Candy,
Reptile Gardens
(water free)
Handmade baskets
Scenery?

Curios, cabins, iced-cold beer,
Last chance Gas, Bull whips sold here.
Beaded belts and earthen jugs
Squaw skirts, Kodak films and rugs,
Tom-toms, Pinon nuts and rings
A wholesale view of promised things.

You may have glimpsed
In these few lines
Enchantment
Styled to present times,
New Mexico
Behind the signs.

ORPHEUS

None moves among us now whose voice and lyre
Can charm the wilding beasts of field and wood,
Or move trees, lodged in adamantine mire,
And rocks that throughout centuries have stood.
Though song no longer summons back to noon
Souls the Hadean shades have closed about,
A whisper is awakening that soon
May soar into the volume of a shout.

Do we approach a morning when men's words,
Courïering in secret, shall command
His visions to appear like sudden birds
Precipitated by a heavenly hand;
And, if not winning a return from death,
Crack doors revealing splendor beyond breath?

—Lori Petri.

LETTER FROM EUREKA

Mrs. Sophie Marshall received a letter from her neighbor this week, Mrs. William H. Jones, who is temporarily making her home in Eureka with her uncle, Harry Jackman. Mrs. Jones has a home on Carmelo Street and has been a Carmel resident for ten years.

"I hasten to write you that the earthquake did no harm to us or our house. One more moment, though, and it would have been frightful. I thought the walls were surely going to fall in but the house is certainly solid, thank goodness. I had just returned from the postoffice and my uncle and I were seated at the card table in his room, opening our Christmas cards, when it started. My uncle, hanging on to his chair, looked like he was riding a bucking bronco. Heavy mirrors swung back and forth like the pendulum of a clock. All I could say was Oh! and Oh! and OH!!

"First thing that I thought of was — how about San Francisco—thinking our quake was the fringe of a heavier one. Instead, it was the center. All electricity was off for hours, so we just waited. After looking around to see what damage had been done, we found everything intact, but lamps over, bottles out of the medicine closets piled in the wash basins and on the floor, but none broken.

"We were more fortunate than our close

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

All the festivities are over, so it is back to the rock pile for gardeners. To me, there is no happier day than January 2, when one can lie back, review the holiday hysteria and be glad it is over. Gardens are always there, one might say, yet the coming of Spring puts something or other in our hearts, with the yearning to get our fingers into the soil.

Did you ever see such a lush crop of weeds? And this is the time to go after them. A little energy within the next few weeks will save us all misery later. All paths should be scraped. The best way to accomplish this is to use a square-nosed shover and push. I do not belong to the school that chops-chops with the hoe. The hoe takes it out of one's back, while the shovel is wielded by the brawn of the body. In the days of the W.P.A., we learned that shovels were something to lean upon, but not today. Shovels are the heart of the tool shed.

This is the time of year to lay on a supply of cow manure. Later, when things begin to grow, the raw manure is a pain in the neck, for all fertilizer that is raw reeks of weed seeds and when it goes on later, there you are, with your fresh young things coming up, plus the unwanted weeds from manure. But now the trick is to spread manure over ground that has been turned over and left rough. The rains will do the rest of the work, and when all the seeds have germinated, and before you plant anything, you turn 'er over again and that is that.

This is a good sweetpea planting time. Prepare the beds well and you will have happy results. The scientific way to prepare for sweetpeas is to dig almost to China. Turn everything over and over. Into the hole that has been dug, place a good sprinkling of charcoal, then a layer of earth; add lots of desiccated steer manure (bought in a sack), and fill rest of hole with very fine earth. Seeds should be planted about two inches deep. Protect sprouting sweetpeas with wire to keep the birdies off, for just as birds adore some spring bulbs, they also feast upon tender sweetpea shoots.

You think you are through now? Don't be funny. Sweetpeas, in order to get a good crop, demand lots of attention. As soon as sprouts appear, spread on more steer manure. Clip off all shoots close to the ground, and allow only one stem to travel up. This insures much larger and fatter flowers. And now you think you are through? Don't be funny again. You have only just begun. Every known gadget in the insect world likes sweet peas and mildew just yearns for sweetpeas. This happily can be controlled with only one good spraying. Ortho-rix and Isotox do the trick. Mix chemicals together in one spray, and now go sit down and wonder, if after all, you are going to raise sweet peas. Me? I just let my neighbors bring sweetpeas to my house!

Wishing Well Holds One Cent Sale On Hamburgers, Shakes

The newly-renovated drive-in eating place on Fremont Avenue, Monterey, The Wishing Well, is offering as an opening gimmick a one-cent sale on hamburgers and milkshakes.

Norm Petersen, owner, announces this week that the offer holds good for both Saturday and Sunday. "Buy one," he says "at the regular price and get another for a penny."

He is using this method to introduce his special "Wishburgers" with unusual sauce, as well as his own recipe for thick, creamy milkshakes. This type of one-cent sale, as far as is known, is an innovation on the Peninsula.

Ganges, Visit With Lady Of Lebanon In Mrs. Pope's Tour

Mrs. Frank Pope is home from a round-the-world flight of 30,000 miles which included a visit with the Lady of Lebanon and a tour up the Ganges.

She was accompanied by Miss Mildred Beans of San Jose.

The trip started in Los Angeles last September. First stop was Hawaii, and then on to Japan, where Mrs. Pope and her friend had two weeks in which to explore and relax. Next came Manila, Bali, Malaya and Thailand, then stops at Calcutta and New Delhi in India. The ladies found time to cruise up the Ganges, go through the Taj Mahal and visit the fabled Vale of Kashmir, "a trip in itself".

From India, the flight went on to Beirut, Lebanon, where Mrs. Pope was entertained by the famed "Lady of Lebanon", the best-known personage of her country. The Lady lives in a magnificent castle in Beirut, where Mrs. Pope and her friend were welcomed.

Syria, Damascus, Egypt, Jerusalem, Turkey, Greece and Italy completed the roster of far places visited. Just before the holidays, Mrs. Pope arrived in New York, there to enjoy two days of shopping, sightseeing and theatre. She was entertained for Christmas by relatives in Chicago before heading home to Carmel.

No stranger to travel, Mrs. Pope has previously visited South America, Mexico and Europe on several different excursions, mostly by air.

Red Cross Needs Volunteers For Fort Ord Work

In an appeal for badly-needed volunteer workers, the Carmel Red Cross sent out a letter this week to all business girls and women in the community listing the various ways they can be of service. The letter reads:

"So you have always wanted to be a Red Cross volunteer. Now is your opportunity.

"The hospital at Fort Ord needs Gray Ladies for evening and week end service to help with crafts, accompany entertainers to the wards and to help in the recreation hall. If you have one evening a month or one evening a week, you can contribute to the program for the patients at Fort Ord.

"The training classes are to be in the evenings. There will be three training sessions at the hospital on January 25 and 27 and February 1 from 7:30 to 9:15.

"We will appreciate immediate response if you are interested. Call the Carmel chapter, 7-6921, for more complete information."

neighbors who lost loads of dishes and cherished belongings. Chimneys are down all over town, thousands of them, and plate glass windows broken. Many buildings are badly damaged. It being just a few days before Christmas caused the shop owners to clean up in a hurry, and by 5:00 p.m. all were open for business again.

"I was really frightened. I just don't like earthquakes one tiny bit. The many after-jolts we have had are plenty scary too! Last night, at midnight, we had a sharp one.

"I am writing in our sunny little breakfast room and looking out at the horde of robins looking for worms in the lawn. They have just about cleaned the holly tree of red berries."

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Gray
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

In the U. S. News and World Report for December 17 appears a two-page advertisement in color by a business organization known as Rayonier Incorporated, which describes itself as engaged in the cellulose chemistry business. It is a vicious and misleading attack on one of the finest units of our national park system, Olympic National Park. Calling themselves "enlightened conservationists" they are using a big slice of their advertising budget in exactly the opposite way. They are certainly making no friends among the millions of true conservationists who are staunch defenders of the national park system.

About a year ago a committee appointed by the Governor of Washington, after long and careful consideration of all aspects of the controversy over dismantling Olympic National Park, reported that no such action should be taken. The lumber interests which have long been after a big slice of the park were apparently not willing to accept the findings of this committee and are now pressuring business organizations to furnish funds to renew the fight. Undoubtedly other firms are being urged to join the underhanded attack.

In the advertisement Rayonier states that they are "frankly critical of national policies which permit trees to reach maturity, die, topple over and rot". This is reminiscent of Secretary McKay's statement in an interview with Time Magazine on August 23 last that he "believes in conservation, not decomposition". Both statements are in sharp opposition to the whole principle of our national park policy of preserving these outstanding scenic areas intact in their primitive state. How could this be done, if all the necessary mechanical equipment for cutting out and removing mature trees, and the road building accompanying it, were continually in operation?

The natural cycle of plant growth calls for the disintegration of old trees into humus for the soil. These natural processes are what the national parks were set aside to protect and perpetuate. Less than one percent of the land surface of the country has been reserved for the national parks and in only a small part of this one percent is there any merchantable timber. To cut this small amount would not extend the economic life of any community more than a very few years. It would not solve the problem of a permanent economy for these communities; it would merely postpone it for a short time.

The first picture in this advertisement shows a group of three militant-looking women at a microphone over a star-spangled banner "Protect Our Forests", apparently haranguing a crowd to that effect. What hypocrisy! I hope that the six million members of the women's clubs and garden clubs and Audubon societies of the country, who are cooperating in the protection of our national parks, will take careful note of this picture and express their feelings in no uncertain terms. The General Sales Office of Rayonier Incorporated is at 161 East 42nd St., New York 17, N. Y.

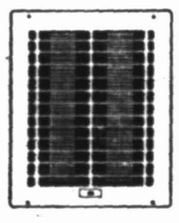
ELECTRIC HEAT

...how it can solve any cold room problem

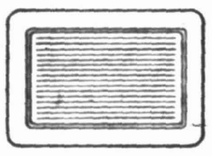
Now, any hard-to-heat room in your home can have new comfort—thanks to today's modern electric heating. You get exactly the degree of warmth you want, quickly and efficiently. And electric heating is inexpensive to install. If you have a room that has never been quite warm enough—or if you've added on a room that isn't connected to your central heating system—here's the way to enjoy all the warmth you want.

there's an electric heating system designed to fit any need



Unit Heaters. A wide variety of sizes and designs. They can be built into the wall or floor—also available in portable, plug-in models. Some built-in and portable models also are equipped with fans.

Baseboard Panels. Heating panels that take the place of baseboards can be installed around the edges of the room.



Glass Panel Heating. The heating element is fused into a large thick panel of tempered glass. Units can be built into the wall or ceiling. Also available in portable models.

Ceiling or Floor Panels. Electric cables are imbedded invisibly in the ceiling or floor. Or panels of conductive rubber or other materials are attached to ceilings.

to get the best results from electric heating...

1. Be sure that your electric heating system is planned and installed by an experienced, qualified electrical contractor or dealer.

2. The room or house must be well insulated, especially in the ceilings.

3. Each room heater should have an individual thermostat so that no heat is wasted.

4. Adequate wiring is essential. Only small heaters in very small rooms can operate efficiently by plugging them into regular (120 volt) outlets. Thus 240-volt wiring is strongly recommended for individual room heaters. If your home needs heavier wiring, the low installation cost can be added to the cost of the heating equipment, and financed on the same easy bank terms.

Properly installed in an insulated home, the cost of electric heat is reasonable. Any experienced, qualified electrical contractor or dealer will be glad to survey your home. Without cost or obligation, he can tell you exactly what it will cost to install a well-engineered electrical heating system.

Take full advantage of California's low-cost electricity. See your dealer, contractor or P. G. and E., about electric heat for your home, today!

Alan Robertson Engaged

Announced over the holidays was the engagement of Joan Ann Houghtelin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Allison Houghtelin of Twin Falls, Idaho, and Lt. Alan Hastings Robertson, son of Dr. and Mrs. John W. Robertson of Carmel.

The engagement news was first revealed at a Christmas Eve party at the home of the bride-elect's parents, with whom Joan and Alan spent Christmas. Last week the couple flew to Carmel for a New Year's visit with Dr. and Mrs. Robertson, who announced the engagement to their local friends December 29 at a reception honoring Joan and their son.

The wedding is to take place here sometime in April. In the meantime, Alan has returned to his Air Force duties as a flight engineer at Mather Field, while Joan is continuing graduate work at Stanford University, where she was graduated last June.

Alan received his diploma in 1953 from the University of California, where he was affiliated with Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He and Joan met last October at the wedding of his sister, Elinor (Mrs. Donald Tobin), who had been Joan's roommate at Stanford. Joan was a bridesmaid at the wedding, which took place in Stanford Chapel. The Tobins, who came down from San Francisco for Christmas with Dr. and Mrs. Robertson, were among those present at the reception for Joan and Alan.

Snow Go

School Superintendent Stuart Mitchell, along with Mrs. Mitchell and daughters Susan and Barbara, returned home New Year's Weekend after a full week of fun in the snow at Yosemite and skiing at Badger Pass. Also at Yosemite for the Christmas-to-New Year's week were Carmel High teacher Lloyd Miller and Mrs. Miller.

Still another ski enthusiast, Mary Stuart Hoopes of the Sunset office staff, spent a week at the Sierra Club ski lodge at Norden, in the Tahoe area. The steady snowfall which held forth for the last four days of Miss Hoopes' stay, did not prevent her and other diehard schussers from skiing; even with visibility virtually nil and the going thick, they managed to get out on the slopes every day. Miss Hoopes and trusty little Angus the Austin returned home Sunday.

Sunday morning at 9:00 o'clock, Audubon members and friends will meet at Fremont and El Estero for a field trip around the Monterey Peninsula. The tour will end at Point Lobos State Park for lunch. Participants are advised to bring their own unless they're dieting.

Thursday evening at 6:00 o'clock, preceding the Audubon Screen Tour program at Sunset Auditorium, members of the society will gather at Cypress West for a dinner and reception honoring Charles E. Mohr, who will narrate the film Outdoor Almanac. Members are asked to make reservations before 5:00 o'clock Wednesday with Mrs. Isabel Terhune at 7-6028.

Voters' League January Sked

A reappraisal of policies in the state League of Women Voters' platform will be the object of a series of League meetings this month. A panel, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Hugh Steven, will explain past League positions and activities and consider possible developments which may require future action.

The first meeting will take place Tuesday morning at 10:00 o'clock at the home of Mrs. L. O. Kellogg in Carmel. Discussion will concern the following three topics: mental hygiene, the California Youth Authority, and legal discrimination against women. The same study will be taken up by the panel again Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Hugh Steven in Pacific Grove, and repeated Tuesday and Wednesday, January 18 and 19, at the Kellogg and Steven homes.

Katherine Smits Engaged

A farewell party Wednesday evening for Katherine Smits, outgoing superintendent of Peninsula Community Hospital, started out on a gala note with the announcement of the honor guest's engagement to Malcolm Hale, Oakland businessman.

The party, held from 5:00 to 8:00 o'clock Wednesday at the Nurses' Residence, was a no-host affair attended by more than 60 employees of the hospital, who were apprised of the engagement by receiving cocktail napkins bearing the names of Miss Smits and her fiance.

Miss Smits left Carmel Wednesday to visit her mother, Mrs. Gladys Smits, in Santa Barbara, where she and Mr. Hale will be married the latter part of this month. They will make their home in Oakland, where Mr. Hale operates a furniture and upholstery business.

Miss Smits has lived in Carmel and served as Peninsula Hospital's administrator for almost 20 years. A native of Minnesota, she received her training at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore, Maryland. Prior to coming here she was at Riverside Community Hospital in Southern California. Mr. Hale, who made his home on the Peninsula during much of 1953, comes from Baltimore and has lived in California for the past nine years.

While Peninsula Hospital is losing a bride-to-be, it will gain a new bridegroom in Thomas N. Tonkin, Miss Smits' successor, who last week wed the former Florence Karstedt of Pacific Palisades. Mr. Tonkin, formerly administrator of Cowell Memorial Hospital in Berkeley, will assume his new post at Peninsula Hospital February 1, and he and his bride will divide their time between Berkeley and Carmel until then.

Viljoens' Son No. Two

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Viljoen welcomed their second child December 31 in the person of an eight pound, six and a half ounce boy. He's been named William Carroll, after his great-great-grandfather on his mother's side. His brother, Benjamin Johannes, takes his name from his paternal side, from the Boer War Hero General Benjamin Johannes Viljoen. The baby's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Wynand Viljoen of Carmel.

Nancy Has a Dinner Soiree

When Nancy Farr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Farr, was asked what sort of party she wanted to celebrate her sixth birthday, she firmly specified a dinner party.

Nancy's wishes were followed to the T, for turkey, and young Miss Farr invited no less than 15 guests to share in the repast. These included her parents, her sister Francesca, who assisted in preparations for the party, and her brother Sam, as well as a specially-invited adult guest, Mary Louise Sistrom.

The ten young friends from Nancy's first grade class at River School were Penny Nesbitt, Susie Draper, Missy Lofton, Deborah Whittlesey, Barbara Pearson, Hazel Jacoby, Joanne Thompson, Alice Macahalig, Marguerite Alvarez and Karen Kahn.

FORCED ENTRY AT P.O. GETS AUTO IN A JAMB

Pedestrian traffic at the postoffice was augmented shortly before 2:00 o'clock Saturday by a Buick driven by Mrs. Mary F. Janes, which made a sudden forced entry through one of the front doors.

The freak accident occurred after Mrs. Janes' foot slipped from the brake pedal to the accelerator and sent the big car headlong over the curb and into the double doors of the post office. Neither Mrs. Janes nor her daughter, Judith, was injured, but Mrs. Elizabeth Chilton of Carmel, who was about to exit from the postoffice, was hit on the head by a piece of the door frame and cut on the legs by flying glass. She declined medical treatment.

The postoffice suffered two smashed doors, banged-up jambs and a few bricks toppled from its outside planting boxes. Repairs were well underway as of yesterday.

Grays Back From Holiday

Dr. and Mrs. K. Fillmore Gray and their sons Stephen and Stanton returned yesterday from Southern California, where they have been enjoying a two-weeks' holiday at La Quinta. The Grays left for their annual vacation the day after Christmas.

Rose C. Stoney Wed

Married in Las Vegas, December 27, were Mrs. A. Carlyse Stoney, long-time resident of Carmel Point, and Henry P. Seymour, owner-manager of Pine Cliff Lodge at Mammoth Lakes.

The couple afterwards drove to Los Angeles via Palm Springs. Mrs. Seymour returned Sunday to her Carmel home, where she will be joined next week by her husband, presently in Los Angeles. The Seymours plan to remain here for the winter, and will spend the summer at Mr. Seymour's resort lodge at Mammoth Lakes.

The Seymours plan to return briefly to the south towards the end of the month, in order to be on hand for the graduation of Mr. Seymour's youngest son, Alan, from U.C.L.A. His two other sons are connected with aviation: one, Don, is a technical jet engineer with the Air Force at Edwards Field, while the eldest, Paul, is a co-pilot with T.W.A.

Charles E. Mohr, director of the Audubon Center at Greenwich, Connecticut, will narrate the Audubon Screen Tour film, Outdoor Almanac, to be presented at 8:00 o'clock Thursday evening in Sunset Auditorium.

Outdoor Almanac is produced and directed by Karl M. Maslowski, who produced Beaver Valley and other Walt Disney True-Life Adventures. It is a color film of wildlife, complete with full musical score and sound track, and covers a full year in the wilderness from snowbound winter to lush summer.

Narrator Mohr, a top nature photographer and writer, is also something of a cave man, being president of the National Speleological Society. A graduate of Bucknell University, he has done advanced study at Columbia and the University of Pennsylvania.

The program is presented by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society.

HIGH SCHOOL TO HAVE FULL-SCALE ELECTION

The electorate of Carmel High School will go to the polls Tuesday morning to select student body officers for the year—and it'll all be done strictly according to Hoyle.

In previous years, voting was accomplished more or less informally in homerooms. This year, however, the high school will follow the same procedures as employed in state and national elections. All students have been required to pre-register—no party designations necessary, though. On election day students will go to designated polling places on campus, manned by election officials, and cast their ballots exactly as in a full-scale election. The ballot used will be the Australian form employed in state and national elections. Results will be announced Tuesday afternoon, as soon as the ballots can be counted.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How purification of thought brings freedom from fear, sickness, and sin will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Sacrament" is the Golden Text from John (4:23): "The hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, the following passage will be read (242:1-3, 6): "Through repentance, spiritual baptism, and regeneration, mortals put off their material beliefs and false individuality. . . . Denial of the claims of matter is a great step towards the joys of Spirit, towards human freedom and the final triumph over the body."

Scriptural selections include this Beatitude from the Sermon on the Mount (Matthew 5:8): "Blessed are the pure in heart; for they shall see God."

ORDINANCE NO. 184 N.S.

AN ORDINANCE APPLYING CERTAIN REGULATIONS TO THE USE OF LAND, BUILDINGS AND STRUCTURES, AND TO THE ERECTION AND DISPLAY OF SIGNS ERECTED ON OR ABOVE THE EAVE OR PARAPET LINE OF STRUCTURES, AND ALL SIGNS OR DISPLAYS IN EXCESS OF 16 SQUARE FEET IN AREA IN THE BUSINESS DISTRICT PENDING THE ADOPTION BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF AN ADDITION TO THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF SAID CITY.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. The City Council of the City of Carmel - by - the - Sea having heretofore instructed the City Planning Commission of said City to prepare an addition to the Zoning Ordinance of said City, and to make tentative reports thereon, and said City Council intending to adopt an addition to said Zoning Ordinance embodying certain detailed regulations governing land use, and particularly the erection and display of signs, said City Council hereby declares it to be the intention to proceed with the consideration of tentative and final reports by said City Planning Commission, when the same shall be made, respectively, on said addition to the Zoning Ordinance, in the manner prescribed by law, for the purpose of applying the detailed regulations of an addition to the Zoning Ordinance of said City. Said City Council hereby finds that, owing to the extent of the Business District of said City, the diversity of interests therein and the necessity for the making of careful studies and thorough analyses of facts in the preparation of the aforesaid addition to the Zoning Ordinance of said City, considerable time will necessarily elapse before the adoption of said Ordinance, and that certain regulations of an interim nature are necessary to be adopted at this time in order to assure the orderly and harmonious development of said City, to protect the character and stability of the Business District and of sound land uses in general and otherwise to protect the public interest, health, comfort and convenience and preserve the public peace, safety and welfare pending the preparation and adoption of the aforesaid ordinance.

Section 2. In all of Districts C-1 and C-2, and A-1, the same being the Business Districts of the City of Carmel - by - the - Sea, no sign or advertising display of any kind or nature shall be erected, attached to or displayed on or above the eave or parapet line of structures, and no signs or displays in excess of 16 square feet in area or having letters in excess of 12 inches in over all height shall be erected, constructed or displayed upon any structure or upon any privately owned property, unless and until, in any such case, a permit for such shall first have been secured from the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea. Application for any such permit shall be made to the City Planning Commission, which shall consider the same and shall report its recommendations with respect thereto to the City Council. Said City Council shall consider such application and report from the Planning Commission. Said City Council may issue such permit if, in the opinion of said City Council, the proposed sign or display will not be detrimental to the character or development of the neighborhood thereof, and will not otherwise adversely affect the welfare of said Business Districts and/or of said City, or said City Council may refuse to issue such permit or may issue such permit subject to specified conditions designed to accomplish the purpose of this Ordinance.

Section 3. All departments, officials and public employees of the City of Carmel - by - the - Sea which are vested with the duty or authority to issue permits or licenses shall conform to the provisions of this Ordinance and shall issue no such permit or license for uses, buildings, or purposes if the same would be in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance, and any such permit or license, if issued in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance, shall be null and void.

Any person, firm or corporation, whether as principal, agent, employee or otherwise, violating or causing the violation of any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine of not more than Three Hundred Dollars ($300.00), or by imprisonment in the City or County Jail for a term not exceeding 90 days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Such person, firm or corporation shall be deemed guilty of a separate offense for each and every day during any portion of which any violation of this Ordinance is committed, continued or permitted by such person, firm or corporation, and shall be punishable as herein provided.

Any sign or display set up, erected, displayed or maintained contrary to the provisions of this Ordinance shall be and the same is hereby declared to be unlawful and a public nuisance and the City Attorney of said City shall commence action or proceedings for the abatement and removal and enjoinment thereof in the manner provided by law.

Section 4. This Ordinance is hereby declared to be of temporary nature only to serve until such time as the City Council, after receiving report from the City Planning Commission, take final action upon an addition to the Zoning Ordinance of said City.

Section 5. This Ordinance is hereby declared to be an urgency measure, necessary for the immediate preservation of public health and safety and shall take effect and shall be in full force and effect immediately upon its adoption. The facts constituting said urgency are as follows: Said City Council has instructed the City Planning Commission of said City to prepare an addition to the Zoning Ordinance for said City and to make tentative reports thereon and said City Council intends to proceed with the consideration of tentative and final reports by the said City Planning Commission and owing to the extent of the Business Districts of said City, the diversity of interests therein and the necessity for the making of careful studies and thorough analyses of facts in the preparation of the aforesaid addition to the Zoning Ordinance, considerable time will necessarily elapse, and that meanwhile, signs and displays may be erected, attached to or displayed upon lands or structures in the aforesaid Business Districts of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, all without the knowledge of the City Council and in a manner detrimental to the general welfare of the City, all of which would cause irreparable damage to the peace, health and safety of the City and its inhabitants, and would prevent the orderly continuance of said studies of said addition to the Zoning Ordinance of said City.

Section 6. The City Clerk of said City is hereby instructed to cause this Ordinance to be published once in THE CARMEL PINE CONE, the official newspaper of said City, within fifteen (15) days after its final passage and approval.

CERTIFICATION OF CITY CLERK

I, the undersigned, City Clerk of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of Ordinance No. 184 N.S. which was adopted at a Regular Meeting of the said Council on the 5th day of January, 1955.

I further certify that upon its passage the foregoing Ordinance was signed by the Mayor of said City and attested by the City Clerk thereof.

DATED this 6th day of January, 1955.

H. S. Natural Area Film Shown At A.A.A.S. Conference

Enid Larson, biology teacher at Carmel High School, busily making use of sabbatical leave, stopped off in town briefly this week to report on the conference of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, held recently in Berkeley.

A high point of the widely-publicized AAAS conclave for Miss Larson was a meeting of one of its subsidiary groups, the National Association of Biology Teachers, at which Carmel High Principal Warren Edwards showed a film of the high school's unique natural area, developed under the supervision of Miss Larson.

Edwards' motion picture, which he filmed and processed himself, was entitled Exploration of Our Natural Resources, and illustrated some of the projects and methods pursued at the natural area. Established in the spring of 1953, the Natural Area gives advanced biology students at the high school a chance to study native plants and animals and their relationships to the land under natural conditions.

The movie of the Natural Area was favorably received by Mr. Edwards' audience, some 125 members of the National Association of Biology Teachers representing high schools and colleges all over the country.

Miss Larson, who was elected second vice-president of the NABT during the recent meeting, is now continuing her year of work and research in biology at Hastings Reservation in upper Carmel Valley.

Ida Maynard Curtis Is 95 Or Is It 97?

Boston up to the present. Her tree-ringed house at Santa Lucia near Carmelo, where she has lived for the past 30 years, is crowded with paintings.

A member of the Carmel Art Association, her works have been included in countless shows at the gallery, as well as at other galleries here and elsewhere. The Carmel Foundation, of which she is also a member, received as a gift one of her paintings which hangs permanently in the place of honor over the mantelpiece at Town House.

A reception honoring Miss Curtis will be held on her birthday, Wednesday, January 12, at 3:00 o'clock at Town House. All her friends and friends of the Carmel Foundation are invited to be present.

mend that the full time director be an employee of the school district and work part time as assistant coach. The winter program they will propose will start modestly as supervised play on the school grounds after school hours. Additional cost to the present $11,000-plus summer program would be "about $3000". George Mosolf, high school coach, who is director of the summer program, will not be available next summer, and the argument will be, "We'd have to hire somebody for the summer program anyway, so why not a year around director? etc., etc."

The additional $3000 for the director-coach assistant, and the simple playground supervision after school would probably seem reasonable if we didn't recall that the summer recreation program started out as a one-man project of supervised playground activity at Sunset School. That first year $250 covered all costs and Fred Godwin passed the hat among the local merchants to meet them. Since then the summer program has expanded into a dozen undreamed of activties, including, this year, a day camp at a dude ranch up Carmel Valley with a supervisor and two assistants in charge, which cost the taxpayers $1,741 or $11.38 per child for 153 children, not sunshine-starved, big city slum kids, but the children of our own well-heeled citizens.

We do not believe that any of us envisaged such ramifications when we worked for the success of the original summer recreation program, but one does learn something from experience and it is natural to ask what is to prevent the year around program's simple winter play-field supervision to develop into equal excesses.

Rather than expand the recreation program into a year around project, we feel that the school board should take a long look at the existing summer program with a view to its contraction.

Sandpipers Looking For Neophytes For Folk Dancing Class

Timid two-steppers need no longer sit by a dance floor and watch folkdancers gaily swoop by. The Sandpipers, a folk-dance group of long standing, are ready and eager to initiate new members into the fun.

Starting Thursday, the Sandpipers are sponsoring a brand-new class in beginning folkdancing, under the direction of veteran instructors Sterling and Jeanette Hall. The group will meet each Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Carmel High cafetorium.

Novices will be instructed in all the basic folk dances of every nationality, as well as American squares and some of the popular Latin-American routines. The hambo's no harder than the mambo, once you get the hang of it, according to Lloyd Weer, Sandpiper president, and most folk dance music has such an emphatic beat that even the most uneducated feet just naturally seem to do the right things. Furthermore, folk dancers insist that there's no better tonic for jaded spirits or chair-cramped limbs than a lively polka or a graceful waltz.

While designed for beginners, the new class will be open to anyone who enjoys folkdancing and doesn't mind reviewing some of the familiar steps—in fact, a number of the Sandpipers will be on hand to render help and encouragement to the initiates. Only fee for the course is a $1.25 monthly charge to cover membership and dues in the Sandpipers.

since Bing pays all the bills. The tournament has netted over $222,000 in eight years—this will be the ninth held on the Monterey Peninsula—for youth centers, the fight against polio, veterans' hospitals, old people's homes and schools.

Up to now $161,830 has gone into Youth Centers on the Monterey Peninsula. The latest youth center, in Monterey, will be dedicated during this year's tournament.

Byron Nelson will again be on hand among the pros, and the amateurs will include Bob Hope, Johnny Weissmuller and many others.

BOUQUETS TO CARMEL IN MERCURY ARTICLE

"Cosmopolitan yet unhurried, naturally artistic" Carmelites interested in reading eulogistic tributes to our fair environs may discover same in the December issue of the American Mercury Magazine, in an article by Eula Wadsworth. In her short essay Miss Wadsworth, who was evidently enchanted with everything she saw, describes the "picturesque and quaint" atmosphere of shops, streets, houses, churches, gardens, etc., concludes by seeing the town as "a gem in a setting of towering pine and cypress with arms outstretched toward the rolling sea." Ah, Paradise! But—a gem with outstretched arms?
